

New Efforts Settle Strike

New efforts to settle the strike of 100 teamsters and drivers at the carter firm here, were being made by A. Pugh, secretary of the department of trade and industry, Friday.

It was reported that the wage dispute was reviewed, in a long meeting of the employer companies Thursday night. It was expected Friday that union representatives would be reached by Mr. Pugh, in a new effort to bring about a resumption of settlement talks.

The strike which commenced Tuesday involves 100 drivers, teamsters and warehousemen, employees of MacChesney Storage and Distributing Company Limited, Western Carriage and Storage Limited.

Most of today's 300,000 people dropped the Montreal-Hamilton highway was in favor of fireworks, elephant parades and stirring flag-raising rituals in tribute to the independence that India received last midnight.

At Karachi, capital of the new Muslim state of Pakistan, 71-year-old Mohammed Ali Jinnah strode all across priceless Persian carpets to a high-backed mahogany chair, at which there was a governor-general by the scarlet-robed chief justice.

VERSES from the Koran were repeated and Pakistan's green star and crescent was hoisted. Said Jinnah: "We have an ambition to give you a honorable, and to others live honorably."

Reports from the scene said 30 persons were killed there and 12 injured yesterday, making the total of the military strike on rioters throughout the day, and huge fires burned unchecked. One man was killed and a military train waiting in the Lahore railway station was shot and killed.

Shakespeare was the father of twins, Judith and Hamlet.

A "Blessed Event"
In the phrase popularized by Walter Winchell, the British family of nations has had a "blessed event." In this case, the blessed event is doubly blessed because the outcome of India's travail has been the twin states of Hindustan and Pakistan, now fully established by royal proclamation as sovereign dominions.

Pakistan, the Moslem state, with a population of 60,000,000 persons, controls 200,000 square miles of land, including India's food and jute producing areas.

Hindustan, or the Dominion of India, possesses India's great cities, industrial resources, 600,000 square miles of land and 200,000,000 persons.

The 962 princely states of native India with a total population of about 85,000,000 are now in process of affiliating themselves with one or the other of the new dominions.

It is indeed a "blessed event" so far as the patriotic ambitions of India's leaders are concerned. It may not be quite so blessed for the millions of Indians who have been freed from the religious fanaticism of Hindu extremists on the one hand and Moslem zealots on the other.

In truth, the early days of India's bifurcated freedom, designed to end strife in that sub-continent, have been marked by riotous violence to an extent seldom known in the history of even that turbulent nation.

In 24 hours, riots in Lahore killed 60 persons and wounded 100. In Calcutta, two persons were killed and five injured. So high ran the wave of unchecked fanaticism that even the dwelling place of Mahatma Gandhi was stoned by a mob of 200 and fires and looting were common everywhere.

It is not unknown in nature for birth to be accompanied by pain. But it is rare in nature for the pains to continue after delivery. And the delivery of Pakistan and Hindustan does not appear to have assuaged the pains of India.

The result, the benevolence of British rule, which did succeed in maintaining order, was never so evident as in the moment of its departure.

Sympathy Wasted

Much good sympathy, including that of the Premier of Saskatchewan, has been wasted, at one time or another, on the plight of the Japanese or Japanese-Canadians in Canada. Thus, those sentimentalists who have been bewailing the brutality of federal officials in threatening to refuse food to certain Japanese-Canadian children, who are now near Moose Jaw apparently have not been aware that the threat was extended only after these persons had refused to work or take jobs.

Certainly Canadians of British blood fare no better. There is no provision for feeding them among them who refuse to work. Why should Japanese-Canadians be treated otherwise.

There is indication of a truce and defiance among these people which explains one of the reasons why British Columbia refuses to have them back.

The dealing with the Japanese-Canadian problem, the other provinces speak from theory. British Columbia speaks from sad experience. Surely the latter viewpoint is infinitely the most valuable in forming a general policy for Canada.

The Japanese in British Columbia were an economic menace. They ruined many industries for white residents. Most of them pretended loyalty to Canada while extending their real loyalty to Japan.

British Columbia is wise to decline the dubious pleasure of their future company. It is to be hoped that Alberta will not fall for any of them.

Also Colossal

It is appropriate, perhaps, that the report of the alleged discovery of a lost civilization of nine-foot men should appear in the press under a Los Angeles dateline.

"Amateur archeologists," so the tale runs, found in 32 caves in California the remains of men nine feet tall. And around them were the tools and weapons of a lost civilization, some of which were of a type never before known.

find the body of a dinosaur nestling up along the side of a sabre-tooth tiger is something that should strain the imagination of even a Californian.

The nine-foot men, of course, are more easily explained.

These ancient persons were also, it should be remembered, the Germans, and since all the production of California is "colossal" or "stupendous" it is only fitting that these early patriots should be distinguished by something of a heroic nature.

Indeed, a nine-foot man is quite as believable as many things which come out of California today. The only point which causes one to marvel is that 80,000 years ago California does not appear to have changed.

Party or People?
One grave misconception always lingers in the minds of those who become too deeply involved in professional politics. That misconception is revealed in the deeply rooted notion that the people of this country think basically as political partisans and not as Canadians.

Something of this notion is apparent in the challenge issued at Yorkton to Liberals and Progressive Conservatives by Premier T. C. Douglas of Saskatchewan, who declares that he is ready to call a provincial election any time his political opponents dare him to.

The implication is plain. The election is to be called on the basis of the support given by the people of Saskatchewan or to consult their sovereign will, but to establish that the CCF organization is the better man in a fight.

This vague delusion that the people of this country are adherents of the Liberal, Progressive Conservative, CCF or Social Credit parties, and that Canadians are divided into these parties, is not peculiar to politicians or Premier Douglas' persuasion. All tend towards it. All exhibit, at some time or another, the conviction that a party victory is much more important than a national victory.

It is to be hoped that the country will place straightway to the side the party politics and deal with under the gentle ministrations of the party the speaker happens to favor.

Party government is not perfect. But it is a system that works and seems to be best adapted to the peculiar needs of our particular form of democracy.

Nevertheless, this is the greatest weakness of the party system—the insolent presumption that Canada exists as a battle ground for political parties and that party governments is so much more important than good government.

Heaven may be a disappointment. According to some of our friends, our other friends won't be there.

LONDON: British schoolteachers, who founded the college in Canada shortly under the Teachers' Interchange scheme, have been taking some lessons themselves. As preparation for their year in the dominion they have been given a short course in Canadian history.

The course is the first of its kind and experts from Canada Home among others, were called in to tell teachers about "The Peoples of Canada," "Canadian Society," "Canada and the Commonwealth," and "Canada Today."

Mr. George Tomlinson, British Minister of Education, in a short address, declared the ignorance within the Commonwealth of other nations and teachers going to them will probably be given similar treatment.

The apparent success of the course has aroused the interest of other educational institutions going to them will probably be given similar treatment.

ELDERLY GREYING graduates of Pembroke College were back in Canada recently. Mr. J. Morrison, the Calgary accountant, is the only one who has not yet returned. He is now in the city of Calgary, where he is working for the Calgary accountant.

Happy Isles

By ELNORE PHILPOTT
There are hundreds of islands that lie off the west coast of the Pacific, and many of them are lovely. When I really arrive, in the big way, it is in a small way as it has been said. It is a small way, but it is hard to remain so far off the beaten track.

Here are two samples:
At one lonely lighthouse there lives a happy little group. In addition to the group-up there is a dynamite five-year-old boy. That boy was the only one who survived a shipwreck nearly five years ago.

For the sole purpose of saving a baby in a home made cradle, the mother always PHILPOTT came in three, that lighthouse keeper should not be married if a live mermaid washes in one of these days.

For the baby was not the only arrival. Next year a live bear cub was literally sent ashore. He was three months old, four years old, I was almost going to say large as a bear. He was a very big bear, like a sort of overgrown teddy bear. But playful.

ON ONE LOVELY ISLAND lives a recluse, a veteran who has lived to end war.
Eighteen years ago he arrived at the island, rented a couple of acres of beachfront for fifty cents per month. He had been a soldier, but since he had his rent due.

Now in his late forties, his physique is like that of a lean, hard-bodied man. He lives almost entirely on what he catches from the sea or grows in his own garden. He has acquired a few words, which in summertime comes to a sort of abbreviated kit.

The recluse retrieves Indian daggers, arrows, slings, and bows. He then rebuilds them with skillfully-made kail and car-locks. He makes amazing things.

It costs him about five dollars cash per month to live. Once a year he comes ashore to get an official to reassess the man's property. The official was dumbfounded when the recluse balked at an up-to-date revision. It cost him a month to live, he declared. "Why should he take more pension?"

THOSE DWELLERS in the happy islands are not necessarily endorsed by THE EDMONTON BULLETIN.

Money in the Till

By PHILIP LEE
Money paid for future years does not in any way effect its need for additional railway revenue.

In the meantime, however, as Mr. Morrison's evidence claimed, the CPR is at liberty to use that money in any manner it sees fit. With it the company can buy new equipment, it can improve its rolling stock and road property, or reduce the funded debt of the company.

At the same time, in fairness to the company, it is not to be regarded in part as a temporary business against higher operating expenses and higher interest rates.

ANOTHER IMPROVEMENT in the money paid for future years does not in any way effect its need for additional railway revenue.

Smiles

By PHILIP LEE
"You have such strange names for your town," an Englishman remarked to an American visitor. "Well-known, Holbrook. Poughkeepsie, New York."

"I suppose they do sound queer to English ears," said the American, thoughtfully. "Do you know, I've never heard of Poughkeepsie before."

5th Anniversary of Raid Dieppe Attack Said "Well Worth While"

By James McCook

LONDON, Aug. 15.—(CP)—Dieppe—the heroic but costly raid made on the French coast by Canadian troops two years ago—was "well worth while" because of the lessons it taught the Allied high command, a special report issued yesterday by the Admiralty said.

THE REPORT, written by Capt. Hugh-Hallett, commander of the Royal Navy forces in the operation, outlined the reasons for the raid's failure and the lessons learned from it.

Dealing mainly with the sea phases of the combined operation A. 15, 1942, the report showed the Allied high command that powerful forces would be needed to crack the German defences in Europe and that powerful reserves would be needed to develop initial successes. These lessons were later made use of in the grand-scale invasion of France in June, 1944.

During the Dieppe raid, the Canadian 2nd Division suffered 2,350 casualties, most of whom were taken prisoner by the Germans. Canadian units taking part in the raid were the Essex Scottish from Windsor, Ont., the Royal Regiment of Canada from Toronto, the Royal Hamilton Light Infantry from Hamilton, Ont., the Queen's Own Cameron Highlanders of Winnipeg, The South Saskatchewan Regiment, The Canadian Mounted Rifles, The Calgary Tank Regiment, and elements of The Royal High-landers, The Royal Canadian Regiment, The Royal Canadian Engineers, The Royal Canadian Armoured Corps, and The Royal Canadian Artillery.

Hugh-Hallett's report showed the difficulties experienced in withdrawing the Canadians after the beachhead assault.

Delays in launching the first attack were said largely responsible for the failure of the raid.

Special mention was made of a 15-minute delay in launching the Royal Regiment on "Blue Beach" at Pula, east of Dieppe, off the 600 members of the regiment who went ashore at Pula, only 35 returned.

The general plan for the attack called for landings on six beaches at specific times. Landing on "Blue Beach" was delayed because of confusion in the convoy. When the troops were ready to land, the report said, they were met with "very heavy opposition which, apparently, pinned them down on the beach area."

Another difficulty grew out of a protective measure—the Allied smoke screen laid down by naval vessels.

"Unfortunately the smoke... hid the beaches from the destroyers and it was very difficult to see what was going on or to offer effective support by gunfire," Hugh-Hallett wrote.

"Nevertheless, without the smoke, it is doubtful if any withdrawal would have been possible."

Plan $5 Million Suit Over Crash

SEATTLE, Aug. 15.—(AP)—An attorney for the Alaska company said the suit under preparation would ask $5,000,000 for loss of the 5,525-ton ship and $100,000 for the lost cargo.

The Donohoe Knot, inbound from Alaska, was in collision with the 1,560-ton Fenn Victory, operated by the American Hawaiian Steamship Company. The Fenn Victory was brought back to Seattle for hull repairs which company officials estimated would run around $15,000.

Wakefield said the legal suit, to be filed in federal court, would allege "excessive speed in the fog" as a "principal fault" of the Fenn Victory.

Prime Minister's Terrier Is Dead

OTTAWA, Aug. 15.—(CP)—"Pat" Prime Minister Mackenzie King's great-bearded terrier and one of Canada's most celebrated dogs, died during the night. Pat had been falling ill and in poor health for some time and was operated upon two days ago. Pat was the second dog owned by the back-of-the-house prime minister, hearing that name. The first dog died several years ago.

Gets Six Months

DRUMHELLER, Aug. 15.—(CP)—George McGowan, an 18-year-old, was sentenced Thursday to six months imprisonment with hard labor when he appeared before Magistrate Victor B. Hawkins and pleaded guilty to a charge of breaking entering and theft. McGowan stole watches and rings to the value of $120 when he entered the window of a jewelry store Wednesday evening.

State Documents

LONDON, Aug. 15.—(CP)—State documents their importance heightened by the urgency of the economic crisis, are being flown daily from London to the shore of the Balmoral Castle, Scotland, where the King is on a holiday. A Viking aircraft of the King's flight leaves London daily for Aberdeen, where mail is transferred to a helicopter which completes the last 40-mile leg.

Quebec to Insist On Radio Rights

QUEBEC, Aug. 15.—(CP)—Premier Duplessis, back from a 10-day holiday in the United States, said yesterday at a press conference that Quebec would continue its campaign to have the province's "elementary and inalienable" rights acknowledged and particularly those in the field of radio broadcasting.

"We shall continue to demand Quebec's rights in the field of radio broadcasting and we shall, to this end, use all expedient, constitutional and legal means at our disposal, convinced that, by claiming back our rights, we are claiming back at the same time, those of other provinces."

The premier charged that the Dominion government's refusal to permit provinces—Quebec, Alberta and Saskatchewan—to own their own radio transmitters is "a denial of freedom of speech." Ottawa's "monopoly" in this field was "an agreement with the regime now existing in Russia and which was imposed in Germany and Italy by Hitler and Mussolini."

At the same time, the premier disclosed the recent discovery in northern Alberta of a secret radio transmitter owned and being operated by a Communist organization. But he gave no details of the discovery made by the provincial police.

He added that he was puzzled by the fact that "federal authorities refuse to permit transmitting licences to provinces and yet they do not succeed in stopping Communists from establishing secret ones."

A Concession

LONDON, Aug. 15.—(AP)—The London Daily Express said today in a dispatch from Athens that Greek authorities have "been arresting and even subjecting to torture persons working in the Soviet Embassy" in the Greek capital. The dispatch said the Soviet charge d'affaires in Athens had protested to the Greek government that such actions are "incompatible with the maintenance of diplomatic relations between Greece and Soviet Union."

"This is the smallest type of 'showing the door' to the Soviet Union," the Express said, "and it is a severe line skeletonized against their first day's visit in Greta Garbo's visit type."

"Ghost Nation" Status Feared

HAMILTON, Aug. 15.—(CP)—Loss of its scientific minds to the United States may make Canada a "ghost nation" is the claim of Dr. H. J. Thode, professor of physical chemistry at McMaster University here. The scientist said that the movement of young Canadian scientists to the U. S. coupled with the prohibition by U. S. Atomic Energy Commission officials to permit a reciprocal movement may make Canadian science barren.

He was commenting upon the refusal of atomic energy officials to permit Dr. Robert J. Moon, nuclear physicist of Chicago, to accept a post as head of the physics department at McMaster. Dr. Moon accepted the post last year but returned to the University of Chicago, where he directed building officials.

The law provides the death penalty for U. S. scientists guilty of providing "foreign nations with atomic information" or who "engage in production of fissionable material outside the U. S."

Dr. Moon can find no one who will interpret the strict terms of the atomic energy law enabling him to accept freely the McMaster chair.

Postal "Stickers" Are Wrongly Used

OTTAWA, Aug. 15.—(CP)—The post office department yesterday reported that conditions for the use of the now-familiar yellow labels on food parcels to Great Britain are being violated and is sending a reminder to senders that the label is to be affixed only to parcels containing food exclusively. The yellow label, bearing a customs declaration, was introduced by the department some time ago in order to expedite shipment of food parcels to Britain. Since then the department reports several instances of articles other than food being sent in the parcels, and warned that this may result in confiscation of the parcel by authorities.

But Nine Loser Errors Help

Cubs Outwit Eskimos To Register 8-3 Win

Cubs forced Eskimos to use two pitchers while punching out an 8-3 victory at Renfrew Park, but only three of their runs were earned, the nine errors committed by the opposition being of considerable assistance.

In order to make the playoffs, the Cubs would have to climb over Purty 99, which club now holds slight edge over a three-game lead in the league standing for the first time since last season.

ED (LEFTY) BELTER started off for Eskimos last night and the Cubs jumped him for three hits which along with three bobbles were good for a trio of runs.

Tom Chulha opened with a single and after Lippincott and Dawson both went out, Cliff Johnston hit another into field. The ball went through Brodick and Chulha scored home.

DeMarco got a life on Garrett's error and Al Superstein poked out a long single into right field. The ball rolled along into the records.

CHULHA hit again in the second when he forced a throw by Lippincott. The Cub catcher then stole second and went to third on Dawson's single. Lippincott was out on a double steal with Dawson.

After passing Garrett to the fourth, Minn Trans took over the Cub pitching burden and held the Eskimos in check. Price's hit went for Garrett home in the fifth. The loss was charged to Belter and Curry received credit for the win.

Following in the first two innings, injuring a finger while hitting in the bottom half of the second. Forest Hutter was the balance of the route, six of the Cub team being accepted off him.

The loss was charged to Belter and Curry received credit for the win.

Westmont was awarded a victory over RCAF last night when the team won 4-1.

Four First Choices, Three Seconds Winners

Form Followers Enjoy Field Day As Favorites Get Down in Front

Form players had a field day at the Edmonton Exhibition track yesterday as four favorites and three second choice horses came galloping home in front.

It was a day of low prices, with even the special pools returning disappointing sums. The Daily Double, Double Dandy to Memphis Lad, was worth only $12.10, while the Quintella, won sixth with Sals Dester and Vega Terry, paid a paltry $2.50.

KNIGHT Pilot, established himself as a serious threat in the Alberta Derby, which is scheduled for next Wednesday, when he romped home in the Jasper Park handicap, feature event of the day.

HE WAS FAR back in the early running, improved his position steadily after a quarter and came into contention with the leaders in the stretch. He engaged H. Cougar in the dash to the post and pulled ahead with plenty in reserve.

H. Cougar started slowly, moved to the front after five furlongs, but couldn't make the stretch with the last-coming winner when the "chips" were down.

Purity 99 Club Again Triumphs Over Buffaloes

CALGARY, Aug. 15. (CP)—Calgary's Purity 99 practically clinched its place in the Big Four Baseball League playoffs, but made the leading position of Buffaloes somewhat precarious when they walloped their city rivals 6-3 at Buffalo Stadium Thursday night in a postponed game that rained out one of the peppiest of recent weeks.

Purity went behind the four-hit pitching of Joe Kania and the big bat of Tony Maze who accounted for three runs with a pair of home runs as he connected safely three times in four trips to the plate.

Kania fanned eighters with Buffaloes' pitcher, but was still while being batted for 10 hits.

Buffaloes scored 3-0 in the first inning, but Purity's Bradley and Petrusa; Kania and

Martel Bears Down When Pressure On

Closes Strongly To Reach Semis In Golf Classic

BOISCHATELLE, Que., Aug. 15. (CP)—The Canadian amateur golfer, Martel, moved through two torrid rounds yesterday under a broiling sun, and the quartet left for today's semi-final presented a varied assortment.

Only two of the four left in the tournament have ever reached the semi-final round before. They are Henry Martel, the Edmonton golfer who came east to defend his title, and Bill Elnicki, Toronto Maple Leaf hockey player who reached the semi-final in Edmonton last year.

FRANK STRANAHAN, of Toledo, O., making his first appearance in the Canadian amateur, still remained the big threat to carry the title across the border for the first time since 1938.

But there was no assurance that the final on Saturday would be a Canadian-American affair. Stranahan, a 21-year-old overcast golfer, rolled a Montreal, Quebec, turned back his good Canadian amateur, Henry Martel, who had moved through two torrid rounds yesterday under a broiling sun, and the quartet left for today's semi-final presented a varied assortment.

Pruden Stymies Scena Hitting S. Side Falls Apart Before CNR Onslaught

A rampaging CNR crew from the Calder freight shed crumpled South Side like a wet sock at Clarke Stadium last night to shove the Maple Leafs back into first place in the junior circuit.

By the time the slaughter was over, CNR had crushed Wally Aldridge's Scena team 10-1 and ousted them from the league lead.

The CNR triumph whitened South Side's chances of clinching the flag South Side conclude their two-game series with the freight men tonight, and wind up the schedule against the current playoff contenders, the Maple Leafs, on Sunday.

But back to last night. CNR boys were strictly on their merits. They played heads up ball over the distance and made full use of every muscle South Side committed.

And there was a handful of South Side errors—3 on the final inning.

After scoring once in the first inning, CNR roared forward with the winning runs in the second and third.

They failed to get a baseless in this rally, but as they turned out, they didn't need it. A total of six batters in a 10-run Scena infield told the story.

FROM THEN to the last out in the ninth, it was just a matter of "Pruden" Hal Pruden on the CNR sled shovelling the big guns in the South Side hitting array. He was plenty effective too, what with scuffling in his line and whiffing five—and always staying ahead of the batmen.

South Side managed to get men on base in every frame except the first and eighth, but only in the third were they able to score.

West's single to centre scored in the eighth, but as they turned out, they didn't need it. A total of six batters in a 10-run Scena infield told the story.

around to tuck us in at night. But as a brief lift it has all the fun of a full moon.

Devils, that's what we are, just devils.

Boys Are Boys

The behavior pattern of a gang group like ours is worth some study by any physician.

Here you have a fairly representative quartet who, in the ordinary course of events, have gotten up in the morning, said for a week if they have to dry dishes, complain of heat strain if they run for a bus, pick over food their various parties and are generally somewhat dull clods.

This same group, however, marooned on a small island a long distance from shore, may be observed to rise at the crack of dawn, burning with vigor, fight each other for the privilege of doing the fresh-baked fish, pulling down the most frightful messes of badly cooked food and talk eagerly of a four-mile hike in the hills.

A certain amount of bravado may be the explanation of this remarkable behavior. There is something of the small boy in every man. But part of it is the absence of women. The little lady is not around to remind you to act your age when you exclaim a bare-bottomed "Cannibalism" off the rear deck into frigid water and no man breathes who doesn't have aching legs and aching arms.

These shenanigans may seem humorously pathetic to the lad on left at home. Underneath, however, we have already been exposed to some patronizing remarks about "boys being boys" and that kind of thing.

It's true, of course, that a man may be a little delirious about getting his temporary freedom like a jailbird finding a halfway in a cake from the warden. But it does no harm for any man to let his dignity slide awhile and get away from the jaundiced eyes of the womenfolk.

Indeed, on one occasion, when we set ashore at a resort popularly called "hot atmosphere," we were whistled at by a group of young ladies and while this new was greeted with blushing laughter from our girls, it also inspired some satisfying glances.

The New Man

The greatest joy of all in any such all-male expedition is the kind of conversation that begins the moment female eyes are in range. There is a common consent that a man among men may speak his mind, interchange his views on the subject.

Free of the feminine reminders of the inexpressiveness of his ancestors or the knowledge that he is boring his wife to tears, a man likes to open his mouth and start talking.

It is understood from the beginning that none of these topics will be exaggerated, if not completely fabricated. Nobody wants to be taken for a fool. A man simply waits his turn to improve the other fellow with the adventures of his past. If he has had no adventures he will generate a language to invent a few in the spirit of the moment.

No fool-failure value is going to get him cold or pick up the thread of the story if he has nothing to say. A common cure of nervousness.

Certainly to sit over a bottle of ale in a small boat with three interested jolly men is an excellent and some involved cock-and-bull story that the telling is one of life's finer moments.

Not every act is a new and positive personality, but it is mentally, and this will continue right up until he is back in the real world. And maybe it's better that way.

Altogether tension is believed to be one of the major causes of "hot" sleeping.

It, Zaitz said, killed 500 years ago by frequent Indians. Rev. James A. McFadden, visiting minister at the Sebastian preparatory school, believes a martyr's grave is buried with the bones and bones the mine detector left here yesterday.
